
Oslo in 2 days?

Posted by bigcake - 2010/02/26 08:28

Hi,

I will be travelling to Oslo in April and would like to know if I will be able to cover the main attractions in Oslo in two days. I will arrive in Oslo from Bergen at 6.26am. Then check into a hostel and will start my tour (half day). My next day will be a whole day (1 day) for Oslo and will leave Oslo for Stockholm on the next day on the 15.49pm train (half day).

Please advise me if it is a good plan for my visit to Oslo. Thank you.

=====

Re:Oslo in 2 days?

Posted by Jjean - 2010/03/02 03:44

Hello!

I think that 2 days in Oslo is enough to see the main city attractions. Oslo is not so big not to manage it. Are you going to see also some fjords? Because Norway is much more than only its biggest cities.

=====

Re:Oslo in 2 days?

Posted by dany - 2010/03/03 05:41

That depends in your taste of attractions. If you would like to see some nature, you could take the t-bane (tube) line 3 to Sognsvann and walk the marked route around the lake. It's only 3.5 km, so it shouldn't take too long, but it's quite lovely in spring.

Moreover, The Tøyen museums plus the botanical garden is another possibility, depending on your interests.

=====

Re:Oslo in 2 days?

Posted by PattiSpencer - 2011/04/13 23:05

This awesome and very interesting thanks for sharing this.

Oregon Fishing California Steelhead Fishing House Cleaning Annandale, VA Latitudes Decking Washington Fishing Charter Internet Marketing Service

=====